OPINION AND ORDER ON APPEAL

Morrison v. Container Labels, 817 Petty 45 (2020)

I. STATEMENT OF CLAIM

I labelled my pad thai with my name and the date. Grace ate it. When confronted she said the label 'must have fallen off'. The label was still on the container, in the bin, under her fork.

II. REBUTTAL OF THE DEFENDANT

The label said DO NOT EAT. It did not say whose. Also the pad thai was eleven days old.

III. OPINION OF THE COURT

Upon review, Exhibit A affirms the label's clarity, directly refuting Grace's implausible defence. The pad thai's age is irrelevant under Morrison's authoritative guidance. The defendant's duplicity and omission aggravate liability.

IV. DISPOSITION

Judgment is for the plaintiff, Ada, with emphatic disapproval of Grace's actions.

DAMAGES AND OBLIGATIONS AWARDED

$20, plus a fifty (50) line handwritten apology delivered within 24 hours, and a vlog documenting food purchasing for a week.
