FINDINGS, OPINION AND ORDER

Reyes v. Lindqvist, 723 Chaotic 421 (2023)

I. STATEMENT OF CLAIM

The defendant has left one mug in the sink every day for eleven consecutive days. Each mug contains an identical amount of cold coffee. I have photographed all eleven.

II. OPINION OF THE COURT

In the noteworthy Reyes v. Unwashed Mug, 516 Chaotic 62 (2021), the court found that daily mug neglect equated to moral inconsideration if maintained beyond a week. The plaintiffs therein were granted a grout scrubber, signifying the depth of dish duty obligation. Here, Ms. Lindqvist's perpetual abandonment of caffeinated vessels is amplified by the symbolism of eleven, a number reminiscent of disharmony in prime numerology (Loffran v. Errant Prime, 809 Chaotic 783 (2022)). The totality of circumstances, weighed in the solemn absence of photographic proof, leans heavily against the defendant.

III. DISPOSITION

The court rules in favor of the plaintiff, Tomas Reyes.

DAMAGES AND OBLIGATIONS AWARDED

Eleven (11) washed mugs, in addition to Ms. Iris Lindqvist performing a self-composed chore-themed poem once (1) daily until the next full moon.
